SUMMARY OF MESSAGE

Tonight we are starting a series called "Clean House" which is a two-week series that will serve as both a challenge and an opportunity to invest and invite for our January 29th "House Party." Tonight we will challenge students to address the messes in their life and instead of just shoving everything "under the bed" actually sorting through their mess. Secondly we are going to challenge them to confess the things they have going on as part of the process to finding freedom. For those who went to the walk this year we said it this way, "Confessing will cost you something but concealing will cost you everything." So for some students this is a look into how they have been doing and for others it is time to share.

SMALL GROUP QUESTIONS

1. What does cleaning look like for you? (Car, room, house, etc.)
2. What's the hardest part about letting people see your "mess?"
3. Do any of you have messes in your life that you would like to talk about?
4. After we address a mess in our life how can we begin to clean it up?
